

Instructions for Installing, Running, and Registering GchpCalc 4.2.1

Note: Windows XP or Vista requires users to have Administrative privileges (or be a Power User) to install programs such as GchpCalc 4.2.1. However, you cannot do this if you are a Standard user. Please relay this message to your office computer administrator or log on as an Administrator before attempting to install GchpCalc 4.2.1 if you are using Windows XP or Vista.

Installing GchpCalc 4.2.1 from Website

1. You need to download the program (on the computer you plan to use it on) from the website (www.geokiss.com) and save the LoadGCHP.zip file to your hard drive (C:\temp directory is recommended).
2. Double-click on LoadGCHP (from Windows Explorer or My Computer).
3. Note which directory the files are extracted into (C:\temp is recommended).
4. Double-click on Setup in the extracted directory.
5. Follow instructions on screen. The default installation is into the subdirectory C:\Program Files\GCHPCALC (recommended).

Installing a shortcut to your desktop

1. Open the C:\Program Files\GCHPCALC subdirectory (from Windows Explorer or My Computer). If you did not choose the default installation, then locate the subdirectory that Gchpcalc was installed in.
2. Right-click the Gchpcalc.exe file.
3. Select Create Shortcut.
4. Drag the Shortcut to Gchpcalc file onto the desktop (or use Cut/Paste).

Running GchpCalc 4.2.1 Demo version

1. Click Start / Programs then find the GCHPCALC folder.
